

PRICE ONE CENT.

EXTRA.

NO REST FOR SENATORS.

The Weary Prospect of Another All-Night Sitting Before Them.

MR. MARTIN STILL TALKING.

And if He Stops Stewart and Teller Are Both Ready to Go On.

PEPPER AMENDMENT OUT.

Republican Repealers Deny that They Will Desert

the Cause.

CHRONOLOGY OF THE SESSION.
Oct. 11, 6:05 P. M.—Mr. Voorhees put the continuous session programme into

8.15 P. M.—First hunt for a quorum.
Mr. Allen had been speaking three hours.
12 Midnight.—Mr. Allen still talking.
Floor almost deserted. Galleries crowded.
Oct. 12, 2 A. M.—Senators reluctant to respond to call of the House. Galleries

6 A. M.—Twelfth call for a quorum.
7 A. M.—Silver men scorn a proposal for a recess.
7.15 A. M.—What is a quorum, anyway?
7.30 A. M.—Mr. Wolcott loses a thread.
8 A. M.—Mr. Allen stops talking. He has broken the Senate record.
9 A. M.—Prayer amendment tabled. Mr.

Dubois wouldn't vote.
9:50 A. M.—Puffer wants a quorum to hear Mr. Martin speak.
10:20 A. M.—Again a quorum wanted for Martin's speech.
10:31 A. M.—Mr. Stewart reads a threatening letter from "One Who Knows."
Mr. Martin resumes.
10:45 A. M.—11:30 A. M.—12:05 P. M.

12.15 P. M. Mr. Hill completes a question.
12.30 P. M.—"Wipe out the National Banks," says Mr. Martin.
12.50 and 1.20 P. M.—Calls of the Senate.
Mr. Voorhees warns absentees that their names will be called.
1.45 P. M. Mr. Hill completes a question.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The belief is general that the continuous session of the Senate will go on for another

Republican repealers indignantly denied a rumor that they would leave their Democratic allies in the lurch this afternoon.

About 2.45 Mr. Martin, of Kansas, who had been addressing the Senate since 9.30, cast a cold chill over the spirit of the repealers by announcing that having disposed of certain preliminaries he should proceed to reform his lines and speak for the next ten hours on the main question. Should he fail to live quite up to the letter of his declaration the silver Senators will be in condition to occupy the floor, for Mr. Stewart slept peacefully last night.

The only tangible result of the session thus far is still the tabling of the Peffer free coinage amendment.

ALLEN TALKS ALL NIGHT.

Breaking the Senate Record—Continuous Session Incidents.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The test of physical endurance in the United States Senate is fairly on. The "continuous session" has gone through its first all-night stage, and at least one man has Populist Senator Allen is a record-breaker. He took the floor at 8:35 in the afternoon, and without any interruptions except such as were purely incidental, held the floor until the stroke of 8 this morning, a stretch of 14-5 hours.

He stood erect and ready to proceed with his remarks.

In the oppressive atmosphere of the Senate he did not weaken for an instant.

During the early part of the evening the galleries were packed to repitition, and they remained so until about 2

The freshest man on the floor was the speaker, Mr. A. M. Voorhes, who sat in the center aisle. He would, of course, call take a book in his hand, but business would soon fall upon his chest and his eyes would close in slumber. Other sanitarians who desired to refresh themelves with sleep retired to the comfortable lounges in the cloak rooms or the still more comfortable lounges in the Committee rooms. But Mr. Voorhees, in the performance